We all look our best in the summer, despite our tongues hanging out a bit more in the heat. At four years old I am in my prime, apparently, so I wanted to capture the moment in a picture. Ian Waldron (www.ianwaldronphotography.com) took this – yours truly as Her Majesty the Queen (I have not been summoned to the Tower yet). Summer can be tiring so I prefer shorter walks in the shade. Northchurch Common is a favourite spot, and later my owner drives us to Aldbury for a rest and long drink at the Greyhound. Don't forget to attend the dog show at the Lions Fête on 29 August at the cricket club. Winners will receive a rosette, which I find to be a very versatile accessory; as you can imagine, I have one for each season.
